Wreath-making in the British Legion Poppy Factory.

All Wreaths supplied by Haig's Fund are made at the British Legion Poppy Factory where 391 severely disabled ex-service men are permanently employed. No fewer than 107 of these men are 100 per cent. disabled, that is to say, have been considered incapable of working, whilst the average disability is no less than 77 per cent. More than 200 limbs are missing.

Unhappily there is still a large waiting list of disabled men for whom the Factory would like to find employment and it is pointed out that a larger demand for Wreaths would increase the work in the Factory. In addition to providing work for the most deserving class of all—the disabled—every wreath sold helps to alleviate distress amongst ex-service men of all ranks, their dependants, and the widows of the fallen, for whose benefit the profits are applied. Several distinguished members of the Services who have died in recent years including Field Marshal Earl Haig, Admiral of the Fleet Earl Jellicoe, Admiral of the Fleet Earl Beatty, General Sir Webb Gillman and Major-General A. B. E. Cator, expressed the wish that wreaths given in their memory should be made at the Poppy Factory.

The British Legion has its own organization for placing Poppy Wreaths on and photographing War Graves in France and Belgium. This section of the work is now dealt with separately in an illustrated booklet which we will gladly send on request. Please ask for OVERSEAS Catalogue.

EARLY DELIVERY FOR ARMISTICETIDE.

While Haig Fund Poppy Wreaths may appropriately be used at all times of the year there is a particularly heavy demand for them at Armistictide. Haig's Fund is anxious to deal expeditiously with all orders received, and it will be of great assistance to this end if wreaths can be ordered and DELIVERY TAKEN as early as possible, thus relieving the pressure of work at Poppy Day Headquarters during the busy time and effecting a valuable saving of storage space at the British Legion Poppy Warehouse.

POPPY DAY ORGANISERS AND BRANCHES who take a number of wreaths on "sale or return" are particularly asked to give their co-operation in this way.

Catalogues concerning above may be obtained from the British Legion Poppy Factory, Petersham Road, Richmond, Surrey.

POPPY FACTORY WANT LEAVES

In order to use home-grown leaves for Wreath making, a plant for preserving leaves has been installed at the British Legion Poppy Factory. There is an urgent need for large quantities of Open Fir Cones, 2 to 3 inches across at base, and Sprigs of Fir, Cypress, Juniper, Yew, Holm Oak, Erecta Viridis, Dried Poppy Heads over one and half inches in diameter, and Teasels. Any of the above will be gratefully received, and could be sent, Carriage Forward, direct to the Factory at Richmond, Surrey, to which address all communications on this subject should be sent. Well matured leaves preserve better than young leaves.

Some of the foliage used in the manufacture of these wreaths is not easily obtainable in large quantities, and in the event of a shortage it may be necessary to substitute one foliage for another. Those numbers marked with an asterisk (*) are of a size to be sent by post. This arises through the desire of the British Legion to use only British foliage preserved at the factory.
